ACCEPTANCE OF LONG FORM ASSIGNMENT OF LICENSE
AND TRANSFER OF CONTROL APPLICATIONS FOR RADIO BROADCAST STATIONS

A significant number of long form assignment of license and transfer of control applications (FCC Forms 314 and 315) for the acquisition of radio broadcast stations have been filed without including certain items which are essential to the processing of the applications.

Accordingly, assignment of license and transfer of control applications which are filed without the information listed below will not be placed on public notice as being accepted for filing until such time as the following information is provided:

1. The appropriate sales agreement or a sufficiently detailed letter of intent.
2. Exhibits required to demonstrate compliance with the radio ownership rules, 47 C.F.R. 73.3555(a)(1)(i)-(a)(1)(iii), where applicable. (E.g., appropriate contour maps and audience share data).

If the above information is not included in the application when filed and is not submitted, in amendment form, within fifteen (15) days of notification by the staff of the missing information, the application will be subject to dismissal.

Once an initial determination is made that the information submitted renders an application substantially complete and results in the issuance of a public notice of the acceptance of an application, but further processing reveals that additional or clarifying information is required, the applicant will be requested to submit that information. However, the status of the application as "accepted for filing" will remain unaffected.

In addition, we note that the current versions of FCC Forms 314 and 315 were made available to the public beginning in August

1992. Nevertheless, a number of long form assignment of license and transfer of control applications continue to be filed on the older versions of the forms and therefore contain incomplete and inappropriate information. Applications that are not filed on FCC Forms 314 and 315, August 1992 edition, will continue to be returned.
